Dear Mr. Nader:

Thank you for the videos and booklet which you presented to me at the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce Luncheon. I am looking forward to viewing all of the material.

As we move forward, the pursuit of excellence in education will remain my number one priority. Much of the future success of Michigan will depend upon our ability to train the workers needed for the high-skill, high-wage, high-demand "Gold Collar Jobs" of the 21st century. Some of the measures that I have taken to achieve this include: investing up to $30 million to build new technical training centers at our highly regarded community colleges; providing more than 12,000 new scholarships of up to $2,000 each for students studying or training to prepare for high demand jobs; and providing grants of up to $10,000 to 200 of Michigan's leading edge teachers who use high-tech teaching methods and whose best practices can be duplicated in other schools. By assisting those who would engage in a relentless pursuit of knowledge, Michigan will help in creating the "heroes of tomorrow."

Again, thank you for the wonderful gifts. Best wishes for a bright future.

Sincerely,

John Engler
Governor

Mr. Jay Wetzel, Vice President

Dear Mr. Wetzel:

I would like to commend General Motors, Ian McEwan, Dave Verbrugge and the many staff members at General Motors Proving Ground for their investment of time, expertise and professional inspiration in developing an exciting partnership between the General Motors Proving Ground and the Huron Valley School District. Proving Ground engineers and technicians worked with students and teachers from Milford High School, Lakeland High School and Harbor High School (our Alternative High School) to design and build competitive robots for National FIRST Competition. FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) is a nonprofit organization working to create a demand for science and math learning among today's youth.

The hands-on educational experience and the chance of being mentored by the engineers, technicians and other Proving Ground employees is an exciting opportunity for our students. We have encouraged other school districts to become involved in the FIRST Competition. The robot has been in parades across the state and is touring elementary and middle schools to spread the excitement that science and technology is not only important for each student to learn but that it can be fun and exciting.

The importance of partnerships between business and education has never been more important to our future than it is now. This program is an example for other corporations to emulate. I wish to again commend General Motors, Ian McEwan and Dave Verbrugge, for their leadership and enthusiasm and the following employees for their outstanding efforts in working with our youth:
